U. S. Invades Philippines Near Mindanao, Report

By the Associated Press

American Expeditionary forces are invading the Philippines, Tokyo radio reported today, striking at the very center of the vulnerable eastern flank of the archipelago.

Domei news agency said flatly United States forces have begun their "re-invasion of the Philippines," supported by powerful units of the Pacific fleet and China-based aircraft.

GEN. DOUGLAS MacARTHUR
Has Long Planned the Philippines Invasion

MacArthur Keeps His Promise To Bataan, Corregidor Heroes

With announcement by the Japanese high command that American troops had landed at Leyte gulf, it appeared today that Gen. MacArthur had kept the promise he made to the gaunt, white faced men and women he left behind in the Nippon-ravaged wilds of Bataan and the musty tunnels of Corregidor.

On March 17, 1942, shortly after the general and his family had completed a perilous flight from the Philippines, slipping through the Jap naval blockade in a PT boat, MacArthur said:

"I shall return.

"The President of the United States has ordered me to break through the Japanese lines, has ordered me to proceed from Corregidor to Australia for the purpose, as I understand it, of organizing an American offensive against Japan. The primary purpose of this is the relief of the Philippines.

"I came through and I shall return."

Three weeks later, on April 4, 1942, Bataan fell, and on the first anniversary of that defeat, Gen. MacArthur gave his reasons for his impatience in wanting to return:

"Our flag lies crumpled," he said, "The wrecks of what were once our men and women groan and sweat in prison toil; our faithful Filipino wards, 16,000,000 souls, gasp in the slavery of a conquering soldiery.

"I was the leader of that lost cause, and from the bottom of a seared and stricken heart, I pray that a merciful God may not delay too long their redemption, that the day of salvation be not so far removed that they perish, that it not again be too late."

The Japanese announcement of today's invasion appears to be the answer to that prayer.

British Capture Jap Tiddim Base

KANDY, Ceylon, Oct. 19 (AP)—British troops advancing into Western Burma have captured the Japanese base at Tiddim, from which enemy forces launched their abortive invasion of India.

early this year. Allied headquarters announced.

Fate of the Tiddim garrison was not immediately disclosed. Small British forces, however, have been reported operating along the Japanese escape route to the south after filtering through the jungles.

Sea forces, Domei said, included "the naval fleet under the command of Gen. MacArthur."

An official Japanese communication said "the enemy fleet" accompanied transports into spacious Leyte gulf Tuesday (Monday, Boston time) and for the last two days naval guns and carrier aircraft have been bombarding shore defenses.

"Part of the enemy forces seem to have landed on Suluan island" at the entrance to the gulf, Domei said.

Domei asserted V. Adm. Mitscher's powerful Task Force 58—the carrier arm of the Pacific fleet—was not participating in the invasion because of asserted losses suffered off Formosa.

These have been denied by Adm. Nimitz.

Since the Formosa battle Domei broadcast, "The enemy has organized a new large task force, grouping together the Fifth Fleet under V. Adm. Spruance, which did not participate in the air battle off Taiwan (Formosa), and the naval fleet under the command of Gen. MacArthur, as well as other naval forces in the Pacific, excluding the 58th Task Force."

"Our Army and Navy forces in this sector," Domei added, "are confronting the enemy forces with undaunted resolution."

These broadcasts, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, were the only reports that Gen. MacArthur had taken the most crucial step to fulfill his pledge, made two and a half years ago, to return to the Philippines.

While there was no official U. S. confirmation the Philippine invasion was at last under way, the combined Pacific sea forces of Adm. Nimitz and land-based air strength of Gen. MacArthur have been paving the way for reconquest of the territory in 10 days of unprecedented raids on western Pacific islands for a thousand miles either side of the Philippines.

These thunderous attacks which have cost the Japanese close to 1000 planes and hundreds of ships are still continuing, Manila radio reported. It told of 270 carrier planes striking in four waves this morning at Manila and strategic Clark Field. The Japanese-controlled radio claimed 19 were shot down.

The Mikado's war lords said "our navy and army units" are "intercepting this enemy force"—an ambiguous expression which Tokyo uses to describe any kind of defense or none at all.

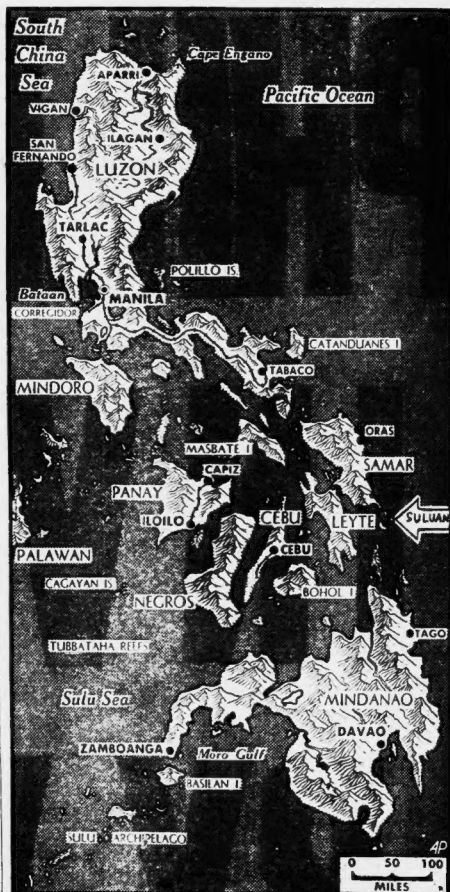

A German radio broadcast quoted an "official" Japanese an-

Crushing Blow

A U. S. SUPERFORTRESS BASE IN WEST CHINA, Oct. 18 (Delayed AP)—Maj. Gen. Lemay, head of the U. S. 20th bomber command, declared today recent superfortress raids on Formosa had levelled all major Japanese air force repair, assembly and modification centers on that island off the East China coast.

The destruction of these installations, he said, should effectively curtail the range and scope of Japanese aerial operations in the South China Sea area.

PHILIPPINES—Arrow (right center) locates Suluan Island and Leyte Bay, where Japs report landings by American troops. Suluan is 415 miles from Manila and the same distance from Morotoi, MacArthur's most advanced announced base.

Leyte Gulf Ideal to Launch Air War on Japs at Manila

By the Associated Press

Leyte gulf is ideally suited for aerial operations against enemy holdings at Manila and Corregidor.

Suluan Island lies at the eastern entrance to the gulf, approximately 415 airline miles from Manila. Its maximum elevation of 125 feet would make it suitable for construction of landing strips from which bombers could operate either against the island of Luzon or Leyte island, 80 miles to the west.

The Japanese have at least four airstrips on Leyte island. Leyte island lies 300 miles southeast of Manila at its closest point and extends 125 miles south. Its coasts are high with good natural harbors. It is 20 miles wide at Leyte Gulf, expanding in hourglass fashion to the north and south. The population is about 270,000.

500 Red Tanks Rip East Prussia

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Russian forces backed by 500 tanks have penetrated well into East Prussia where the German border town of Eydtkuhnen has been evacuated, the Berlin radio said today.

"The deepest Russian penetration" was in the Eydtkuhnen area 37 miles east of Insterburg and the Red army has passed this town, Berlin said. "The Russians have advanced further on German soil."

Tremendous infantry and tank forces were being hurled against the homeland of the Junker generals to "achieve a grand scale breakthrough at all costs," the enemy said, but denied a breakthrough had been accomplished.

The front was widened from 30 to 45 miles overnight with the Russians extending their attacks to the area of Suwalki, center of a triangle which Hitler annexed from Poland to East Prussia in 1939.

The enemy admission came within hours after the Russians announced an invasion of Czechoslovakia in the south on a 171-mile front, plunging through the main Carpathian mountain passes to a junction with other Russian army groups driving through Transylvania and Hungary.

Eydtkuhnen is 37 miles east of the major Prussian rail center of Insterburg on the trunk highway and railroad from Kaunas, Lithuania.

The enemy said the drive, under command of the 36-year-old Russian Jewish general, Ivan D. Cherniakovskiy, was aimed at Insterburg.

"The Soviets are employing their old tactics of blasting a way for their infantry through German positions with massed use of artillery and bombers," said Col. Ernst von Hammer, Nazi commentator.

Germany announced the East Prussia offensive three days ago. Moscow has not yet announced the drive.

Franco Opponent Arrives in France

LONDON, Oct. 19. Diego Martinez Barrios, former president of the Spanish Cortes under the Republican constitution, has arrived at Perpignan, France, near the Spanish frontier, the Paris radio said today.

Barrios was last reported in Mexico where he was a member of a junta which demanded the removal of the Franco regime.

Robots Wreck English Village

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Heavy casualties were reported today in a small town in southern England which suffered one of its worst blows of the war as the Germans continued their flying bomb attacks for the eighth successive night.

An entire row of houses in the community was destroyed by a robot which plowed into the earth after being hit by anti-aircraft fire. Rescue workers still were digging in the ruins this morning for dead and injured.

In some districts lightning-like flashes lit up the sky—seen far beyond the range of the sound of the explosion.

Speculation developed whether the Nazis were experimenting with some new type explosive, as the criss-cross flashes were different from those to which Britons have become accustomed.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 19 (INS)—A number of "rocket planes" or high-flying robot bombs swept over various areas of south Sweden today. Swedish defense authorities gave out few details other than to say that in some instances the craft passed over so high they could not be seen although their engines were audible.

"MISS AMERICA," BOND SALESMAN—Venus Ramey of Washington, "Miss America" of 1944, invades the White House to sell Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt a $100 war bond, thus inaugurating her national bond selling drive. Boston will be included in her tour of key cities throughout the country.

Nazis Reel Under New Holland Drive

by ALEX H. SINGLETON

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP)—British Tommies and American armor rocked the Germans back toward Venlo on the Maas from the Holland salient today in what appeared to be the preliminaries to an offensive aimed at breaking organized German resistance before Christmas.

West of Antwerp, Canadians were less than two miles from German guns at Breskens, commanding the sea entrance to the port.

In Aachen U. S. First Army troops, again smashing German tank and infantry counter-thrusts northeast of the Siegfried Line city, held about half the wrecked city and smashed on into the northwest corner.

Coincident with Berlin's report of a savage Russian onslaught against East Prussia, the German radio declared that the British offensive in East Holland, "in support of the American attack on Aachen, has increased in violence."

The timing raised the possibility of a grand strategy plan to beat the Nazis by smashing simultaneously at East Prussia, heart of German militarism, while wrecking the Rhine-Ruhr valley, the center of German industry.

An Associated Press report corresponding with the British Second Army said Lt. Gen. Dempsey's troops, striking swiftly after taking Venray, had advanced about three and a half miles south toward the railroad town of Amerika. An American armored column was converging at a distance of five miles upon the same objective from the east.

The Germans had been eliminated from all but about seven square miles of territory west of the Maas, and the Allies were within 33 miles of Duisburg in the Ruhr.

Gen. Eisenhower's communique, officially reporting the seizure of Venray, said Allied forces had advanced two miles south of the Venray-Deurne road.

Northwest of Aachen, Lt. Gen. Hodges' doughboys clearing the way for the resumption of the offensive, "destroyed a large number of pillboxes and have made gains against strong opposition."

In the Scheldt pocket, criss-crossed by dikes and streams, German resistance was evaporating, the 5000-man garrison reported reduced to about 1000.

In the Vosges foothills, Eisenhower reported that Allied positions had been "consolidated and improved" at several points despite stubborn enemy resistance and "vain" counterattacks.

Tampa Hurricane Damage Light, Jacksonville in Path

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 19 (AP)—The center of a "severe hurricane" now passing over the Tampa-St. Petersburg area will reach the vicinity of Jacksonville this afternoon.

Shifting gales of 60 to 70 miles per hour will accompany the storm as it crosses the mainland, and the weather bureau warned all interests in the path of the storm that "all precautions should be continued and rushed to completion immediately."

A 6:30 a. m. bulletin issued by the bureau advised that above normal tides will prevail from Daytona Beach northward along the eastern coast of Florida.

"Residents of low lying coastal areas should depart immediately for higher terrain," the bulletin warned.

"This severe hurricane is now passing over Tampa with lowest pressure 28.51," weather bureau experts reported.

"Indications are for continued north or northeastward movement about 16 to 18 miles per hour."

Warren O. Johnson, associate forecaster of the Hurricane Warning Service, said direct reports from Tampa indicated that Tampa and St. Petersburg proper had escaped with "very slight damage."

The hurricane gave the Florida Keys a severe lashing, but the city of Key West apparently suffered no serious damage.

Havana reported the hurricane in Cuba caused possibly a dozen deaths, injured between 300 and 400 persons and sank at least three small vessels.

Hundreds of homeless were given food and clothing in refugee camps opened at the University of Miami and Alcazar Fortress. Cuban officials estimated damages to the Havana gas works at $500,000. First estimates placed other property damages in Havana alone at several hundred thousand dollars. Virtually all Havana was without power last night.

Winds Due Here

Indications the hurricane sweeping up through Florida would be deflected out to sea before its course could take in New England continued to be seen today but this section may be lashed by a northeaster.

This prospect was advanced by the Weather Bureau, which estimated the northeaster might strike here Saturday or Sunday. The forecaster stressed the local storm probably would be no more severe than those which normally are experienced here several times a year.

Dewey to Attack PAC In Pittsburgh Address

By LEO W. O'BRIEN

ALBANY, Oct. 19 (INS)—Gov. Dewey prepared today for a second campaign invasion of Pennsylvania after telling a nation-wide radio audience failure of the Roosevelt administration to have ready as cost American lives.

The Republican presidential nominee, whose speech in Pittsburgh tomorrow night is expected to deal with labor problems and the Political Action Committee, delivered in New York city last night a smashing attack upon President Roosevelt's foreign policy.

He said it consisted largely of "personal, secret diplomacy," and that Mr. Roosevelt has studiously ignored his State and War Departments and substituted his own will for the "informed judgment of the American people."

Addressing more than 2000 persons at the New York Herald-Tribune forum, Gov. Dewey lashed out at the now scrapped Morgenthau plan to make defeated Germany an agricultural nation, virtually without industry.

"On the basis of our Treasury Department's ill-conceived proposals," said the Governor, "the German people were told that a program of destruction was in store for them if they surrendered. Almost overnight the morale of the German people seemed changed. They are fighting with the frenzy of despair. We are paying in blood for our failure to have ready an inflexible program for dealing with invaded Germany."

The Republican nominee charged that:

President Roosevelt undertook to dispose of the fate of Poland "personally and secretly with Mr. Stalin," leaving the Secretary of State behind and taking with him Harry Hopkins, "who acquired his training in foreign affairs in running the WPA."

"The President has not yet, despite his talks with Stalin," even secured Russian recognition of these whom we consider to be the true government of Poland."

"The United States has sent a 'latch of misadventures' to Italy, the people of which deserve something better than the improvised, inefficient administration which personal New Deal government is giving them."

"The Roosevelt administration lacked until now an official plan for dealing with invaded Germany because plans worked out by the two 'primarily qualified' departments, State and War, 'go for nothing when the President personally handles foreign policy.'"

Mr. Roosevelt's "persistent refusal" to grant recognition to the DeGaulle government of France is "contributing to the increasing chaos behind our lines at a critical period of the war."

The September agreement restoring relations with Rumania was signed by a representative of Soviet Russia acting in behalf of the United States.

"These are just a few examples," said the governor, "of what happens when a President insists upon handling foreign affairs on the basis of personal, secret diplomacy."

"The result is today that no one knows what our foreign policy is with respect to Poland, France, Germany, Rumania and other countries of Europe, or for that matter, South America or China. We have no hint of what commitments may have been made and American opinion is stifled and ineffective."

When President Roosevelt went to Quebec last month to discuss with Winston Churchill plans for dealing with invaded Germany, he added, neither the Secretary of State nor the Secretary of War went along, but Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau did.

"The result," said Gov. Dewey, "was a first-class cabinet crisis when it appeared that the work of the State Department and War Department was to be scrapped in favor of a brand-new scheme produced by the Treasury. In the end, the Treasury plan was scrapped."

"Meanwhile, German Propaganda Minister Goebbels has seized upon the episode to terrify the Germans into fanatical resistance."

The GOP nominee said the necessity of building a durable peace is increased by the certainty that, if there is another war, it will begin when "robot bombs" launched thousands of miles away suddenly rain death and destruction on our major cities."

The Republican candidate reiterated his Louisville pledge of nonpartisan co-operation in the task of creating a world organization for peace, but he warned sharply against jeopardizing the "good beginning" at Dumbarton Oaks by "impatient quarreling over things still to be settled." He said some complain that the work done at Dumbarton Oaks did not go far enough while others, equally vehement, fear the plans go too far.

The Republican nominee, who returned to Albany from New York late last night, will leave here for Pittsburgh late tonight. His last previous speech in Pennsylvania was his talk September 7 at Philadelphia.

Truman Spurs Northwest Drive

WITH TRUMAN, en route to Seattle, Oct. 19 (AP)—Leaving his private car at Portland, Ore., Sen. Truman toured Washington by automobile today with Sen. Wallgren (D.) of Washington, in an effort to put new emphasis on the Democratic campaign in the Northwest.

He expected to climax his West Coast campaign with a major political address in the Seattle Civic Auditorium in which he said he could stress the "importance of President Roosevelt's re-election" to the development of water power and production of light metals in this area.

The Truman party wound up a day's campaign in Oregon last night at a rally in Portland where Democratic Senatorial Candidates Willis Mahone and Edgar W. Smith saw prospects for the party's entire ticket in the state.

Boston Vote List Breaks Record

Boston today had 406,813 voters—biggest enrollment in the city's history—after a long and intensive registration drive.

The all-time high includes 19,470 service men who registered by mail.

Among the last day registrants were two blind girls, Miss Margaret Mulvey of Gray st., East Bay, and Mrs. Frances Barry of Worcester sq., South End, who read from Braille cards before their names were placed on the voting lists.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Each civilian will have 38 pounds of fresh or processed apples available for consumption this year, compared with 25 pounds a year ago, under allocations announced today by the War Food Administration. This is 10 pounds less than the 1935-39 per capita consumption.

Bricker Hits P.A.C. Ballot Intimidation

By E. E. EASTERLY

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., Oct. 19 (AP)—Gov. John W. Bricker said today he had been informed that agents of the Political Action Committee had launched a "campaign of threats and intimidation" to line up labor voters for the New Deal.

Edison Will Not Stump for F. D.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 19 (INS)—Former Gov. Charles Edison of New Jersey, one-time member of the Roosevelt cabinet, declared today he will not campaign for the President's re-election and will not tell how he intends to vote on Nov. 7.

Edison told Washington newsmen Tuesday that, as an avowed Democrat, he had told President Roosevelt Gov. Dewey would carry New Jersey on election day.

The former Governor said he wanted to keep out of the presidential campaign to avoid confusion of issues in his nonpartisan drive for a better state constitution.

Edison served as Assistant Secretary of the Navy from December, 1939, to June of 1940.

"The implication of all this," said the Republican candidate for Vice-President, "is that those workers do not vote for Mr. Roosevelt they will lose their jobs—or will fail to get better jobs—or will be let out first when war production ends—or will not be able to get peacetime jobs."

The Ohio Governor, winding up a six-day campaign for California's 25 electoral votes after an unprecedented demonstration by supporters at Los Angeles, said no voter should allow himself to be intimidated.

"To those workers and any others who have been approached in this manner," he added in a prepared speech released by his campaign staff, "I want to give this assurance. We still have a secret ballot in this country. When you enter the voting booth, you enter it alone."

"There is no possible way for anybody to know how you vote without committing an election fraud or crime. You are not required to tell anybody how you vote—and no one can compel you to do so."

"It has been reported that men and women in industrial plants have been told by Sidney Hillman's PAC agents that they must vote for the New Deal—that means are available for knowing how they vote—and that if they don't vote right they will be taken care of," Bricker said.

He added, "It is not surprising to learn of this campaign of threats and intimidation. One of the most serious indictments of the New Deal is the charge that it has thwarted free voting in this country."

The candidate's eight-car special train was to stop also at Tulare, Selma and Fresno before leaving a State in which, he said, he found "much encouragement."

118 Experts View Dewey In Lead Over Roosevelt

Special to the Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, Oct. 19—Gov. Dewey has swept into the lead in the presidential race, according to an article entitled, "F.D. Loses Ground," published today in Newsweek, national magazine.

In the opinion of 118 qualified political observers covering all parts of the country, Dewey as of today is awarded 522 electoral votes in 19 states, Roosevelt 230 votes in 25 states.

Reporting a 50-50 status in Pennsylvania, the article declares: "A month ago, Pennsylvania was assigned to the Roosevelt column. The shift to tossup represents, therefore, a gain for Dewey and indicates that the state, with its 35 electoral votes, is the most important battleground in the campaign."

With those 35 votes, Dewey would have 267, one more than the minimum required for election, it is pointed out.

Three other states may decide the election, it is said—Missouri, with 15 electoral votes; Minnesota, 11, and Connecticut, 8.

Oregon has shifted to probably Republican; Dewey has gained in Massachusetts; the Dewey trend grows in Ohio, and probably will give the Dewey-Bricker ticket a 100,000 plurality, the experts asserted.

"Dewey plainly is stronger today than he was at the time of his nomination," says the article. "Roosevelt has lost ground." The final two weeks of the campaign now appear destined to settle the issue.

Missing Seaman Now Visiting Mother

Reported missing in last month's hurricane by the Navy Department, Seaman Richard A. Fork-nail was enjoying a reunion today with his mother, Mrs. Merlida Seney of Center st., Brockton.

The sailor ended weeks of worry and grief for his mother by telephoning her as soon as he arrived in Boston. He revealed he had missed the boat which was lost in the storm.

SEVEN PERSONS SEEK CUSTODY—Edward W. Lucey, 3, orphaned son of an Army officer, and heir to a $10,000 home and a $10,000 insurance policy, is today the center of a custody battle in Plymouth court. Seeking the child's custody are Chaplain and Mrs. Owen Kerr, his temporary guardian; his father's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gilles of Plymouth; Mr. and Mrs. John Lucey of Fresno, Calif., his paternal uncle and aunt, and Leo Johnson of Oregon, a paternal uncle. Judge Stone has continued the case to Nov. 1.

His Premonition In Death of Son, Wife Comes True

John Joseph Cheever, a civilian guard for the Army, was on duty at dawn today on a ship in East Boston when he saw a friend beckoning frantically from the dock.

Cheever sauntered down to his friend and said: "My wife is dead. I can tell it without your saying it."

Five days ago on the same ship another friend of Cheever beckoned to him from the dock at dawn.

"My son is killed. I just somehow know it," said Cheever.

At City Hospital today, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Cheever passed away after a year's illness without knowing that her only son, PFC John J. Cheever, Jr., had been killed in action Sept. 10 in Belgium.

Last Tuesday, before the soldier's pre-burial mass at St. Matthew's Church, Dorchester, her daughter, Dorothy, of Armandine st., Dorchester, put on a big smile for her mother at the hospital, and handed her an envelope from overseas.

Her mother smiled, and she was too ill to ask questions. She never knew that Dorothy had showed her an old letter from John. The sight of the handwriting assured Mrs. Cheever that all was well.

Three days ago the story of the death of her son was printed without his picture. His only picture was by her bedside in the hospital.

"The sight of that picture was all that gave her life the last few weeks. They told me she died looking at it," said her husband, whose two brothers died in World War I.

The funeral for Mrs. Cheever will be held in the same church where mass was sung for her son. Arrangements will be announced later.

She is survived by another daughter, Elizabeth; a brother, John Earle, and a sister, Mrs. John Carey, both of Dorchester.

BROTHERS RECOVERING, INFANT DEAD FROM FUMES—Robert, 4, and Philip, 2, sons of Mrs. Margaret McCarthy of Pemberton st., Cambridge, are today recovering from gas fumes. Another brother, Paul, 14 months old, died, and the children's mother is also confined to the Cambridge City Hospital. Student Nurse Frances Galligan watches the youngsters.

Ticket Scalpers Warned of Law

Operators of ticket agencies throughout the State were notified today by Public Safety Commr. John F. Stokes that the 50-cent premium limit established by law on the resale of tickets must be obeyed from now on.

The law has not been enforced for the past few years because of a Supreme Judicial Court decision which nullified it.

The Stokes letter, however, declared recent decisions by the United States Supreme Court and the New York courts made the Massachusetts law constitutional and enforceable and that immediate action would be taken against agencies which did not obey it.

Some Boston ticket agencies have been charging a premium of $1 or more on tickets in the past few years.

Plane Bomb Rips House in Quincy

After breakfast this morning, James Langdon, 51, of Elmwood ave., in the Wollaston section of Quincy, are to follow his usual habit and sit for awhile in his favorite living room chair, with his feet propped on a footstool while he read the morning paper.

Then he remembered a household task that remained to be done. He went to another room. His wife joined him.

Seconds later a three-pound Navy practice bomb crashed through the bungalow roof over the living room. It demolished the footstool and Landon's favorite chair.

Navy authorities at Quantico were investigating the probability that a squadron of planes on their way to sea for bombing practice had passed over Langdon's home.

Cambridge Wife Foils Attack

Beaten and kicked by a man who accosted her near her home today, Mrs. Ruth Conley, 34, of University rd., Cambridge, fought off her assailant's attempts to attack her and routed him with her screams.

The attack occurred as Mrs. Conley walked along University rd., a few blocks from busy Harvard st.

She suffered multiple bruises on her face and body and her clothing was badly torn.

Pro-Burial Mass For Lt. Devine

A pro-burial mass will be celebrated for Lt. John J. Devine, Jr., 24, at St. Mary's of the Nativity Church, Scituate, at 8:30 a. m. Monday.

A member of Gen. Patton's Tank Corps, he died Aug. 12 in the battle of Aachen.

The son of Sgt. John J. Devine of Division 12, Boston police department, he graduated from Lawrence Academy and Harvard in 1912.

F. D. to Speak Here But Date Not Fixed

Stephen Early, White House secretary, today confirmed reports that President Roosevelt will make a campaign address in Boston, according to the AP, but declined to say whether the date would be Nov. 4 as rumor placed it.

On that date, Gov. Dewey is to make a speech in Madison St. Garden, New York.

Governor Battle Stirs Wide Interest

The close of registration for the Nov. 7 election today found a record number of voters listed in virtually every community of the commonwealth as interest in the state campaign was focused on the vigorous battle for governor being waged by Mayor Tobin and Lt. Gov. Cahill.

The race for attorney general between former Lt. Gov. Francis F. Kelly, Democrat, and Governor's Counselor Clarence A. Barnes also ranked high in public interest, with both candidates listed as speakers at the respective party rallies.

Tobin and his Democratic associates are campaigning in western Massachusetts today and tonight the Mayor is scheduled to speak at rallies in Chicopee City Hall and Hotel Kimball, Springfield.

Cahill is booked to speak tonight at the Memorial Building in Plymouth, Mansfield Town Hall and at Canton Hill Brookton.

In his speeches, the Republican nominee stressed his knowledge of the operations of state government and his friendly association with Gov. Saltonstall during his six years as lieutenant governor. Cahill also emphasized his labor record, which Tobin had assailed, and asserted he played a major role in the passage of more than 100 laws aiding labor.

"My attitude of understanding and co-operation with labor is natural," he said. "I have been working since I was six years old. My mother, because of the death of my father when our little family was of tender age, was forced by circumstances to go to work."

In reply, Tobin insisted his opponent had failed to make "one single contribution toward a better Massachusetts during the entire period he has been lieutenant-governor."

The mayor, in a series of brief speeches in Western Massachusetts communities today, declared that as mayor of Boston he averted financial disaster for the municipal government.

"When I first took office, the feeling was prevalent throughout Massachusetts that the city would soon give up the ghost," Tobin asserted. "There was justification for this feeling. To state that the situation confronting me was discouraging is a gross understatement of fact. Nevertheless, the city did not give up the ghost. It did not default a single obligation. It did not discharge employees, reduce their salaries, or force them to go home to their families with an empty pay envelope.

"Boston did not stop or curtail any necessary municipal services. And it did not deny to the thousands of persons on relief rolls the allotments which provided the food, shelter and the heat to keep their bodies and souls together."

In the attorney general light, Kelly predicted he would win over Barnes as a result of the record registration in Boston, asserting he would carry the city by at least 120,000.

Barnes scoffed at the Kelly claims and reiterated his contention that the office of attorney general should be filled "by a capable lawyer who cannot be bought by any politician."

Bomber Blast In Air Kills 24

LONDON, Oct. 19 (INS)—Twenty-four American airmen were killed yesterday when a Liberator bomber exploded 6000 feet over Bebington on the Wirral peninsula, Cheshire, U. S. Army officials announced today.

Bodies of two other men are being sought because 26 Air Force members were believed in the plane.

Just before the plane crashed it broke into three parts, which landed 300 yards apart. The rear portion was in flames.

Thirteen bodies were recovered from the middle section of the bomber last night and 11 others were found scattered in the fields.

French Rationing Half Lottery, Jigsaw

By JOSEPH DYNAN

PARIS, Oct. 19 (AP)—The American housewife who has trouble keeping track of her red and blue points can thank her stars she does not live in France, where rationing seems to be a cross between a jigsaw puzzle and a lottery.

For the past four years every essential item of foodstuffs, plus clothing, fuel and wine has been rationed under a system which, to the neophyte, appears to be the world's most complicated.

The system has pyramided to a point where it is a major book-keeping job just to keep the various rationing cards, coupons and tickets in fairly understandable order.

But merely having a rationing card isn't enough. One must have coupons with the correct numbers and correct colors to fit a given situation at a given time in a given location. It's as simple as all that.

For example, the morning newspaper may announce the distribution in certain localities of two ounces of butter against "GD" coupons and in another section against "GP" coupons. No matter how many coupons you have left in your ration book for that item they're no good unless you hold "GD" or "GP" coupons—depending on what section of the city you live in.

The same day any coupon from "DC" to "DQ" may be used for two bunches of carrots—while the number 47 of the year 1944 on the potato ration ticket may be good for a half-pound of spuds in all wards east of the river.

Holders of coupon "GD" to "JZ" for October, 1944, on the cheese ticket may be permitted to purchase a pound, provided they are able to show "DX" coupon on the same ration card still unused.

Holding coupons "U-T" or "U-S" plus coupons "UX" "UY" and "UZ" on the meat ticket may enable you to purchase one ounce of meat in a given area within a certain length of time—but only if your card is blue with brown lettering.

BANKER HARRISON HURT

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (INS)—Milton W. Harrison, nationally known banker, suffered possible fracture of both legs today when he accidentally fell, police said, from a window of his room at the Union League Club.

Abp. Spellman Reports to F. D.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (INS)

—Archbishop Spellman, bishop-chaplain of the Army and Navy, gave President Roosevelt a first-hand account of his three-month tour among American forces in the Mediterranean theater and in France.

After an extended luncheon conference with the President, the distinguished clergyman told reporters he was pleased to find Roosevelt in "very good health."

"I had not seen the President for several months, but I found him in good health and spirits and could see no change in his well-being since we last met," the Archbishop said.

The prelate said he had spent the last three months visiting with American troops and their chaplains in Italy, Corsica, Sardinia, southern France, the Normandy beachhead and with the American spearhead now in Germany. He said he gave the President a report on his trip.

In any discussion of American Retail Practice my usual preference is to shut my mouth. I'm a humble crier by nature and my talents lie more in the direction of Backgammon and Ballet anyway but a chap can't continue to read present day store advertising and hold his tongue forever. And inasmuch as mine has been in a sling for at least a week I feel I must speak out today. Whether or not you have to listen is, of course, a goose of another gender.

For years now I like you have been baffled by the philanthropy, not to say the magic, of the modern entrepreneur. All those one cent sales where two were sold for the price of one, all that "genuine Harris Tweed" for a dollar and a half a suit, all those thousand and one love philters that have kept us both insolvent had me puzzled just as well as you. So much so in fact that I recently took a public walk with the Great Segal just to see if I could find the answers, but, after a year of anguish, all I came up with was the same profound wonder at the patience of the good old buying public and the left hand of the lady on my right. It seems that she was in a fog too.

How different it all is today. Whereas it used to be the style to promise them two for one the trend now seems to be to offer them one for two—or ten—or even a hundred. Witness if you will those merchandising epics, the $500 robe, the $25,000 mink and that wonder to end all wonders the $25 tie. No longer is it the vogue to stun em with "value"; the idea now is just to stun em, and to hell with the O. P. A.

Now this war has affected almost everybody and practically everybody. Retailing is no exception to the rule. One of the changes it has brought to my little shop is the quality of the goods I sell. By all the old yardsticks almost everything I sell today is junk. I am blaming nobody—I guess it had to be. But just for the record let's get this one thing straight—the day Zareh's blossoms out with just one of those "cravats" (are you listening O'Hara!) that you have to cash a bond to buy will be the day Zareh gives up retailing for good. And please, no cracks about that "ill wind" either.

Mother Tells Tragic Story About Why She Knows There's War On

A Rockland, Me., mother of two war-maimed sons knows there is a war going on.

She is one of many to whom war's impact has proven all too bitter to deserve being accosted with the flippant question: "Don't You Know There's A War On?"

She is one of many, too, who have written to the I-Know-There's-A-War-On Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston 6, Mass., to recount her experience with this question. You, too, can write your experience. A $50 War Bond goes to the writer of the best letter, not exceeding 300 words, and $3 will be paid for each letter published.

"Sure I do," writes, Mrs. I. M. H., the Rockland mother, "for now I must wash my son's face and hands and butter his bread, help him to dress, and watch him try to hold back his tears when he attempts to hold his little girl. Only 20, but many of his buddies are dead over there. My other son, a Marine who did his part, is a physical wreck after two years in the Pacific. And my grocer asked me that question when I tried to buy a package of gum."

"I know there is a war on, and not by fuel, food or shoe rationing," says M. S. C. of Dorchester. Can anyone help notice the anxious looks in mothers' eyes; the quiet determination of fathers to work so it might end sooner; the hopeful looks on the faces of our fighting boys? Is there anyone who hasn't noticed these things which make them know there's a war on?"

"Our only son is in the Army and my husband is doing his bit in the Coast Guard temporary reserve," reports Mrs. E. A. of Providence, "but the markets are filled with sarcastic clerks who ask this question repeatedly. It's discouraging seeking things impossible to buy and taking insults. It seems anything but the American spirit."

"I have two brothers overseas and haven't heard from one of them since July," writes R. F. C. of Cambridge. "Two more were discharged for injuries suffered in the line of duty. I lost the man I intended to marry just a year ago from that dreadful malaria. I'm doing my part in war work buying bonds, and I can really say I know there's a war on."

"I know there's a war on because my only brother is overseas with the Air Corps," says P. C. of Brighton. "One of my cousins was killed in Italy, and another has been reported missing in action. Maybe in the future people will stop and think before they ask this silly question of anyone."

21 Bay State Plants Slated for U.S. Sale

The Reconstruction Finance Corp. announced today that 21 Massachusetts industrial plants and sites now used for war work would be disposed of by the government as soon as their present need for war production was ended, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington.

All the plants listed are operating at full capacity now on war work and there was no indication any of them could be declared as surplus in the immediate future, according to the office of John J. Hagerty, regional RFC head.

The announcement also gave a sharp contradiction to the recent McCarron report by a committee of Western and Southern Senators which favored immediate conversion of government-owned war plants in those areas and a ban on conversion in New England, Eastern and Northern states.

Present operators of the plants, which were built, equipped and leased by the government for war production, will have the first option on purchasing them as soon as they are declared surplus in the war effort.

Should they decline to take them over or meet the government price on them, the property would be sold to the highest bidder, according to the RFC office.

At the Lynn General Electric Co., which had plants in West Lynn, Everett and Fitchburg named in the list, it was said the company had no plans as yet on the matter and expected to continue for a long time in war production in the buildings mentioned.

The plants named were:
The Carbide Corp., Easthampton 11 acres, one building, 671,990 sq. ft., machinery, equipment.
Clifford Mfg. Co., Waltham: 530 acres, three buildings, 62,930 sq. ft.; two lesser buildings, 125 pieces machinery, equipment.

Britain in Drive For World Trade

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP).—Bidding for postwar world markets, hundreds of commercial travelers already have left England, with government help, to start a "Buy British" campaign around the world, the Daily Express said today.

Harcourt Johnstone, secretary of the department of overseas trade, was quoted as saying the government was cutting red tape to expedite the missions and that British manufacturers were getting passports and visas within three weeks after applying for them.

Johnstone said while the Americans are making "more spectacular" efforts to capture world markets, England "is not going to be left out in the cold."

Army Probes Mystery In Oxford Man's Death

CAMP STONEMAN, Cal., Oct. 19.—Confronted by a possible murder mystery, Army authorities today awaited an autopsy report in the death of Cpl. Arthur B. Bacon, of South Main st., Oxford, Mass., whose stabbed body was found here in a camp canal.

The victim was found after a sentry heard screams late at night in the vicinity of an isolated gate at the south end of the camp.

When the sentry investigated, he found a trail of blood which led to the edge of the canal. Camp firemen dragged the canal and found Bacon's body. The throat had been slashed and there was a deep stab wound through the neck.

An autopsy was ordered to determine whether Bacon drowned or died of the neck wounds.

Chinese Crush Jap Attacks

CH'UNGKING, Oct. 19 (AP)—
Chinese troops last Monday captured Yangkungyien, five miles southwest of the Burma Road

Chinese communique said today.
Four miles east of Mangshih other Japanese attacks were rehas been only patrol activity, the announcement as saying that the invasion of the Philippines began with "successful landings" on Suluan.

A landing Tuesday, and reported only today by Tokyo, would indicate that the Japanese were taken completely by surprise.

Suluan is a small island lying southeast of Samar on the eastern fringe of the central Philippines.

The central location of the island would make it an ideal spot for an air strip from which to strike at almost any part of the Philippines.

No air attacks have been reported on Suluan, and the central islands have been the most free from bombing of the entire archipelago.

A landing on such a small and unknown island as Suluan would be in keeping with Gen. Mac-Arthur's successful conquest of New Guinea and neighboring islands formerly controlled by the Japanese.

His troops hit at unexpected spots where the Japanese weren't.
In striking island groups they normally landed on one of the lesser islands, carved out an airfield and from there went on to the larger islands.

T. Brown of Rutland, Vt.

The past summer was described by members as the "biggest sea-made for a postwar advertising program to boost New England returning veterans was also discussed.

ATHENS, Oct. 19 (AP)—Back
in Greece after years of exile, Premier George Papandreu and his government assumed control today from a committee of three tion of Athens Sunday.

Philip Maniatis, head of the

Here it is—stew with the exciting, savory goodness that only wine can give!

Lamb Stew Sauterne

Cut 2 lbs. lean lamb shoulder into 2-inch cubes and place in deep bowl with 2 sliced onions and 1 or 2 peeled cloves of garlic. Add 1 1/2 cups Sauterne or Rhine Wine, cover, and let stand in refrigerator 2 or 3 hours. Discard garlic, take out meat, roll in seasoned flour, brown in 4 tbsps. hot oil in kettle. Add wine and onion, and 3 cups water; cover and simmer until tender (about 1 1/2 hours). Add vegetables; season, and cook until tender, about 20 minutes. Serves 4 to 6.

Pour glasses of the same wine at table

You don't need a "special" wine for cooking. For example, when you've opened a bottle of Sauterne or Rhine Wine to use in cooking the lamb stew above, serve the remainder, slightly chilled, in glasses at the table. Ask your dealer for these California white table wines.

man who has served seven months in the Army. I understand that he is ill and is about to receive a medical discharge. Does he get mustering-out pay and what amount? Does my allotment stop following his discharge? ... S. B. Rosbury.

A—Yes, he will receive mustering-out pay amounting to $200. At time of discharge he will get $100, and a month later the second hundred. If he saw foreign duty, outside Continental United States, he would receive an extra hundred dollars. Your allotment is discontinued at time of discharge.

Q—My son was reported killed in action over a year ago, but I still receive the allotment and the insurance checks. Could you tell me why? A. B. Boston

A—Apparently there is an error because you are not entitled to the allotment check. Suggest that you write the Office of Dependents and Allotments immediately and inform them, because they will eventually discover even and will make demand for reimbursement of amount sent you. On the insurance checks, naturally you are entitled to them. You were no doubt the beneficiary of the National Service Life Insurance policy.

Q—After ten months in the Army I was released 10 days before Pearl Harbor and transferred to the Enlisted Reserve Corps, from which I was honorably discharged Dec. 31, 1912. I would appreciate if you could inform me if the enlisted reserve period counts as service. Also what benefits am I eligible for? C. H., Avon

A—Your inactive status in the Reserve Corps does not count on your active duty record. In other words, you are credited with ten months' active duty. That entitles you to benefits of the GI Bill.

Q—My brother disappeared in the early part of 1920 at the time he was 22 years of age. Is there any dept. in Washington where they might have a record of draft registration or Social Security, and I could write for information? L. V., Dorchester.

A—Your question is one for a missing persons bureau. However, my only suggestion to you is contact Federal Bureau of Investigation, 10 Post Office sq., Boston, and give them whatever details you might have. E. A. Smea, in charge of the local bureau, will extend the location of his organization or at least recommend a procedure.

Questions submitted to Veterans' Friend Editor, Boston Evening Mass., will be answered in this American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston daily column.

War Widow's Letter Reveals Heartbreak

By HAL BOYLE

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN GERMANY, Oct. 11 (delayed) (AP)—In two years with the troops overseas I have read many stirring letters from wives who lost their husbands in foreign combat, but none more moving than one written by Kath Irvin, whose husband, Bede Irvin, was killed when an American bomb fell short in the break-through near St. Lo last July.

Bede, an Associated Press war photographer, now lies buried in France. He was the envy of every soldier and correspondent who knew him, because the mailman never passed him by. He was gone from home a year and three months, and every day his wife sent him a gay, gossipy letter invariably well-written and cheerful.

Like thousands of other American women, Kath has found it difficult to adjust herself to the finality of death. She expressed this lost feeling in a letter to Danny Gross, another AP photographer, thanking him for telling her the details of Bede's death.

"Nothing is very real even now," she wrote. "And I find myself putting away little chitchat in my mind for future letters I will be writing to Bede—and then I remember there can be no more letters to write to him."

"There is so little comfort in the fact that Bede was a good soldier and died a good soldier's death."

"There are so many things I want to thank you for—the pictures you sent—Bede's campaign ribbon—and the mass you asked your uncle to say for Bede. That was a beautiful thing to do, Danny."

"I know of no lovelier thing than one man sharing his religion with another."

"I don't know if you are married, Danny, but there are so many hopes and plans between a husband and wife. Plans that won't for live and myself ever come true. Nothing we ever dreamed of together can ever come true now."

"There will be no more dinners for us together, no more future to dream of and plan on together. But most of all there will be no more Bede. No more Bede to ever meet again. No Bede ever coming home again."

"I do have memories—memories of Bede and memories of happiness we found together in some night years of being married."

"No, Danny, there is nothing more you can do. You've already done so much and there is nothing more I could ask for. The one thing I want cannot be acquired."

"And the moral—if you want one is—Write that letter to your man in service."

Boy, Leg Broken, Climbs to Roof

BALTIMORE, Oct. 19 (AP)—Eleven-year-old Jimmy Wolfe was treated in Mercy Hospital today for a compound fracture and multiple lacerations—all because he wanted to show his 4-year-old cousin how the Baltimore baseball team hits the ball.

Jimmy hit a ball onto the roof of a warehouse. He jumped from the roof of his home to the warehouse skylight, and fell four floors into a roofless elevator which had been stopped for the night. His face bleeding profusely and a bone protruding from his right leg, Jimmy dragged himself to the front door of the building and found it locked. Making his way painfully back to the elevator, he clambered up on the superstructure, and then pulled himself up the cable, hand over hand.

He was found on the roof by his mother.

Send Milkweed Bags in Now

Massachusetts 4-H club members, true to their high standards as Junior Victory Army workers, have filled 350,000 gleaming jars with delicious fruits and vegetables, reports Tena Bishop, assistant state 4-H club leader. This record output shows that the 4-Hers have quadrupled their canning output since the war began. It also shows that 90 per cent of the products used in rural towns have been raised by 4-H members in home gardens.

The canners have not only preserved food for themselves and their families, but also for hospitals, schools, and people unable to can for themselves, the crippled and sick, or those engaged in full-time war jobs. Many have set aside a large number of jars to help out with school lunch programs in their home cities and towns.

The best of the canned foods were proudly exhibited at local, county and state fairs, and prize money earned has been turned into War Bonds and tucked away to be used for a college education in years to come.

JVA members and the 4-Hers are already laying plans for next summer's canning program, aiming to pass all previous records in quality and quantity, says Miss Bishop.

Notice: JVA members who have been collecting milkweed pods in the current campaign should get in touch with their school superintendents regarding collections. The school superintendent in your community will tell you where to send the full bags of pods.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army headquarters, P. O. Box 238, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

New Salvage Record in Sight

With returns from the first 14 wards of the city 11 per cent ahead of last month, Boston's October salvage drive entered the stretch today with officials predicting a new high in the reclamation of waste paper.

Collections were scheduled today in Wards 15, 16 and 17, Dorchester, and Ward 18, Hyde Park, Roslindale and Mattapan. The campaign will close tomorrow when city trucks canvass Ward 19, Jamaica Plain, Ward 20, West Roxbury and Roslindale, and Wards 21 and 22, Allston and Brighton.

Wards 11 and 12 of Roxbury and 13 and 14 of Dorchester turned in 290,015 pounds of paper, 9 per cent more than the collection in the same sections last month. Tin salvage in those wards amounted to 36,700 pounds.

Total waste paper salvage for the first 14 wards of the city now amounts to 728,655 pounds.

Winners in the $25 war bond drawing yesterday for Wards 6 to 10 were Marguerite E. Connolly, F. St., South Boston; Joey Cannata, Gavin way, South Boston; Mrs. Florence Jefferson, Springfield st., Boston; Charles F. Warren, Linden Park st., Roxbury, and Mrs. J. C. Mueller, Round Hill st., Jamaica Plain.

A native of Warsaw, N. Y., Mr. Wiggins was a graduate of Amherst College and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His first wife was Edith M. Marcy of Superior, Wis. In 1936, he married Miss Liane Houston of Providence, who survives. Other survivors are five children by his first wife, a brother and sister.

BOY OF 2 FALLS 3 STORIES

Two-year-old Frank Foley was reported slightly improved today at City Hospital where he is under treatment for a fractured arm and possible skull fracture suffered when he fell from a third-story window at his home in Westwood St., Dorchester.

Reventlow Puts Fight For Son Up to Barbara

Former Count Haugwitz-Reventlow today placed the next move in the long custody battle over his 8-year-old son, Lance, squarely up to his ex-wife, Mrs. Barbara Hutton Grant, by filing an affidavit in Los Angeles superior court, declaring he took the boy away from his mother because he thought it was for Lance's best interests.

Reventlow now a Brookline resident, threw down the legal gauntlet to the dime heiress, wife of movie star Cary Grant.

In addition to the affidavit, he filed notice that he would move to quash Barbara's suit to get custody of the boy on the ground that he and his son are "permanently outside the jurisdiction of California courts."

He denied he fled from Pasadena, Cal., to Canada with Lance last June either as a maneuver to get more money from her or as a move to evade her subsequent suit for the boy's custody. He insisted that he acted only in what he believed the best interest of his son, stating he felt Lance would get the best education in New England and that he feared his ex-wife was going to take the boy to live in Spain at the end of the war.

End the War VICTORIOUSLY
Make the Peace PERMANENTLY
Bring Our Boys Home PROMPTLY

GET BOYS HOME

Governor DEWEY seems to have "had something" when he said in his Philadelphia speech:

"The New Deal prepares to keep men in the Army because it is afraid of a resumption of its own depression."

"They can't think of anything for us to do when we stop building ships and guns." And in his speech at Oklahoma City:

"The present Administration, with its record of peacetime failure, is afraid to bring men home after victory."

In the period between Mr. Dewey's two addresses, President Roosevelt denied the first of the Governor's charges.

He told the Teamsters' Union banquet at Washington:

"Why, the very day that this fantastic charge was first made a formal plan for THE METHOD OF SPEEDY DISCHARGE FROM THE ARMY had already been announced by the War Department."

To this, Governor Dewey retorted:

"You can read that plan from now until Doomsday and you cannot find ONE WORD about 'speedy discharge.'"

"It is, in fact, a statement of THE PRIORITY in which men will be discharged after the war."

"It does not say whether or not they are to be retained in service A MONTH or YEARS after victory."

Mr. Dewey also quoted the following statement made by the Director of Selective Service and reported in "Stars and Stripes," the Army publication:

"We can keep people in the Army about as cheaply as we could create an agency for them when they are out."

THE TRUTH of the matter, as subsequently disclosed is that at the time of these utterances, the War Department WAS NOT CONSIDERING and WAS NOT PLANNING any "speedy" demobilization of our forces in Europe when Germany has been defeated.

In the contrary, the War Department was actually planning to keep at least 2,000,000 men in Europe for a protracted period - and was formulating in order to occupy their time, a "large scale educational program" to be "supplemented" by "organized travel tours to places of historic interest."

Formal announcement of this program was made in New York City by Col Lawrence Westbrook on behalf of the Planning Division of the War Department.

In other words, some 2,000,000 veterans, no longer needed in battle, are to be marooned in Europe. They will NOT be here to resume their old jobs, which, under the law, must be held open for them when the vast undertaking of reconversion to peacetime production should be getting quickly under way.

This information has been amply confirmed by official press releases from the War Department.

So, obviously, Mr. Roosevelt did not quite know what he was talking about when he lightly indicated "speedy discharges" on any extensive scale.

THE WAR DEPARTMENT did not concede, however, that our men would have to linger on in Europe because the New Deal does not know how to make jobs for them at home.

The War Department started Washington by saying that there would be no ships to bring the men home for a long time.

Now, it is well known that there are many ships among the United Nations.

Our own shipbuilding program has been both enormous and successful, besides which there are British ships, French ships, Italian ships, Russian ships, Dutch ships, Norwegian ships and even a few Polish ships.

Consequently, said "The New York Sun" in a Washington despatch:

"First there should be SUCH A SHORTAGE OF SHIPPING HAS OCCASIONED SURPRISE here at the capital."

Is the New Deal to detain the troops in Europe because, as Governor Dewey said, "CANNOT MAKE JOBS FOR THEM AT HOME?"

Or is the New Deal completely neglecting to make jobs for the veterans because it cannot bring them home for a long time?

Either way, there seems to be a typical New Deal lethargy and ineptitude in evidence.

Why not provide for jobs, and use SOME of the ships in the Atlantic to bring the boys home before diverting ALL the transports from the Atlantic to the Pacific?

God and the doctor we alkis adore,
But only when the doctors will believe
The danger o'er, both are alkis required,
God is forgotten and the doctor slighted.

—JOHN OWEN.

IN some versions of the above the word "soldier" is substituted for "doctor." It is equally true... The female is definitely the stronger sex. Consider the endurance necessary for shopping. One hour of shopping requires the same staying power as three football games. Or so it seems to me. My girl friend took me shopping yesterday. Said she wanted me to pick out some furniture for my study. As I entered the store I got all jammed up in a mob of wild and excited females. "What's the rot about? Is Sinatra here or something?" I asked my girl friend, who said: "Oh, it is like this every day." In the elevator I was knocked against the wall by a female who weighed at least 200 pounds. I was worried. I thought she had broken it. The 20-cent cigar I had in my pocket. When we got to the furniture department my girl friend had me sitting in all kinds of chairs and in front of a lot of desks. While I was sitting in front of one desk she said to the saleslady: "Doesn't he look cute?" The saleslady, a dishwater blonde, said: "Very cute." I think they were kidding me. "That's the last time I'll go shopping with you," I said to my girl friend bitterly as I staggered out of the store an hour later. "What," said she, "aren't you even going to let me bring you down to see Santa Claus?"

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS:
Q How many Roosevelt hotels are there in the United States and what Roosevelt are they named after? A There are Roosevelt hotels in New York, New Orleans, Hollywood and Pittsburgh. As far as I know, they are all named after Theodore Roosevelt. Q Some columnists refer to themselves as "this reporter." Is a columnist a reporter? A Some columnists who specialize in news can rightly be called reporters. The others are journalists. As previously pointed out here, a journalist is a reporter whose legs have gone back on him.

SIDELIGHTS: Ike Mendoza of San Francisco describes himself as "the last of the red-hot drummers of the old Barbary Coast." Must be an interesting fellow. Wonder if he knew Spanish Kitty, the 15-ball pool champion of the Barbary Coast? ... How long is your arm? If you can't answer that offhand, you don't take enough interest in yourself and are probably a man whose wife buys his shirts for him. A clothing salesman who has measured men and women throughout the United States says the longest arm he saw on a man was 19 inches. Longest on a woman, 20 inches. He says women are shorter than men from the waist up but their arms and legs are just as long.

PIPES: A U. S. Army private tells me he has 30 pipes. He plans to take 11 of these pipes overseas with him. Says he: "Most pipe smokers do not realize that the great part of the flavor comes from the pipe itself. This blend of the tobacco is, of course, very important, but it is secondary to the quality of the wood of the pipe. Both cigar smokers and pipe smokers make good soldiers, but the pipe smokers make better generals." (Note—Am asking this soldier or any other pipe smoker to name a pipe smoking general who was or is better than Gen. H. S. Gurney who smoked 20 cigars a day throughout his active military career.)

THAT DOG AGAIN: After a long walk in the park with the pup my girl friend decided to take a taxi home. The dog was ordered to look out the taxi window. "Don't get on the seat!" admonished my girl friend. The taxi driver turned around and said: "Lady, let that little dog enjoy himself. I'll clean off the seat. I have a 15-year-old poodle who certainly enjoys taxi riding. I often take him for a ride through the park on Sunday mornings."

BRIEFLY: RECENTLY I stated the Hollywoodians had never made a film based on life in the Tenderloin district of New York City. I was wrong. "Gambler's Choice" starring Chester Morris, had such a background in England. In England a type of perfume has the trade name "The Lady." It wasn't selling well. The name was changed to "The House." This perfume immediately became a best seller. The man who made the change certainly understood women.

Mortimer, as "organizer" for the UAW, helped Michener in the North American job and was formally "dismissed."

On Nov. 3, 1911, however, after Hitler had attacked Stalin, he was re-employed by the UAW in Cleveland as an "organizer" at the plant of Thompson Products, manufacturers of equipment for planes and automobiles for the government.

Explaining this action, the president of the Cleveland CIO District Auto Council said, "The boys felt Mortimer should get a break."

MORTIMER LATER bobbed up in Los Angeles as director of the State County and Municipal Workers and organizer for the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, both of the CIO and both known for their tolerance of Communist activities.

And less than a month ago, the Los Angeles county branch of the Communist Political Society elected him a vice-president.

A THIRD diligent UAW dignitary who tied up conversion in that critical period is Harold Christoffel, president of the Allis-Chalmers Union, which strangled production of vital equipment, mostly for the Navy, and specifically for the defense of Pearl Harbor, for 76 days in 1941, prior to the German blow at Russia.

It was shown that thousands of fraudulent votes were cast in the balloting on the strike but the Department of Justice did nothing to the union or any of its officials.

Christoffel, now 31 years old, is married and has one child but, at last reports, his wife was employed and he was enjoying an occupational deferment as an "essential" man in war industry, although he was otherwise fit and eligible for war.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1941, by King Features Synd., Inc.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—The national convention of the United Auto Workers of the CIO, voted to remove from office Lew Michener, its regional director on the West Coast, who has long been identified with the Harry Bridges faction.

This development, in Michener's case, sets in motion a train of thought.

Michener was one of the most violent leaders of the Communist insurrection, Westbrook Pegler so described by President Roosevelt, himself, at the plant of North American Aviation in Inglewood, Cal., in 1940, when the United States was beginning its armament program, an effort beset on all sides by sabotage under Communist union auspices, mainly those of the CIO.

Mr. Roosevelt finally sent the Army to drive off the rioters so that American workers, men and women, could build and learn to build fighting planes.

This blockade was not a labor dispute between the company and the employees, but as the President said, an obstruction of the American program of preparedness, directed from a foreign source, Russia being at that time in a state of collaboration with Nazi Germany.

The American Communists who now are found in Mr. Roosevelt's camp, violently cooperating with Sidney Hillman, held the war to be an imperialist campaign against the United States, their plan was to hamper conversion from the industries of peace to those of war so that Hitler could beat Britain and then turn, in full strength and, possibly, with Russia's help, against this nation.

AFTER THE insurrection was broken, the United Auto Workers saw the political necessity of a mild rebuke to Michener, so he was removed from his position and made ineligible for "elective" office in the union for one year. Then, to circumvent its own order, the union gave him an "appointive" position as assistant to its own successor.

In this combination the successor was a stooge and Michener resumed his old powers after a brief interval.

Within a year he was restored to full standing on the national executive body of the UAW and to his old job as West Coast director.

Since then, although physically fit, childless, though married, and only 35 years old at present, Michener has received draft deferment on the ground of essentiality in the war industrial effort.

That his deferment will end does not follow, however, and seems unlikely, although millions of other men no more favorably situated financially have been drafted during the long term of his comfortable immunity.

Hollywood . . . By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 19—Immediately after the American Theater Wing announced a canteen in Paris, Sol Lesser pounced on the idea for another canteen movie, tied up the title "Canteen in Paris" and now it's Sol's—all what he did with "Stage Door Canteen" using a Hollywood cast supplemented with flashes, and specialties by the French stars who are now in Paris. These include Danielle Darrieux, the recently "cleared" Maurice Chevalier—and others. A big hand should go to Lesser for the two and a half million dollars that has been spread over all the service charities from the proceeds of "Stage Door Canteen." Among the groups that have profited are the American Theater Wing, the Motion Picture Relief Fund, the Stage Door Canteen in New York and Hollywood's own canteen. Speaking of the Paris Canteen—it will be operated as long as there is an American soldier in France.

"THE YEARNING," Margaret Rawlings' charming book, is again up for discussion at M-G-M. $800,000 was spent and lot of footage shot on location in Florida when the picture was stopped. Director Vic Fleming and Producer Sidney Franklin could never decide which script to shoot and by the time they made up their mind, the boy and the deer used in the picture grew up and were too old. Spencer Tracy was in Florida for months on uncomfortable location. The story would be as difficult as "Sequoia," which took two years to make.

★ ★ ★ VISITING ALL THE SICK and wounded in Honolulu made a merry impression on Spencer Tracy, who told me he has one idea in his heart and mind—to go back and do what he can. "You don't have to get up and do a song and dance," he said. "They just want to talk to you and know someone is thinking of them." He met Tommy Breen, Mary and Joe Breen's red-headed boy, who lost his leg in the raid on Saipan. "Tommy is marvelous," he said, "He's so brave." While we were talking Frances Fonda joined us and Spence made her so happy by saying that all the men he talked to, who had known Hank when he was stationed in Honolulu, were crazy about him.

★ ★ ★ WHEN YOU READ THIS I shall be on my way east. I am going to sleep and sleep and sleep and sleep, and I think I'll forget movies—Bill, for a few days anyway. But you know they're never very far out of my mind and heart. While I am away Dorothy Manners, who, on September 27 celebrated her tenth year with me, will miss me the column. Dorothy knows I'm away backwards, so when I'm away we won't be letting you down. You'll have all the news first, we hope. I'll be back in four weeks full of health, vim and vigor.

★ ★ ★ ONE OF THE PRETTIEST GIRLS I have ever seen in my life is Dr. Lee Siegel's wife, I said, when I met her, the usual banal remark. "You should be in pictures," "Well, she is," said Dr. Siegel. "She's just finished an important role in 'Hold Autumn In Your Hand.'" Then I remembered Mrs. Siegel, who used to be called Noreen Roth and was a Ziegfeld beauty. She has changed her name to Noreen Nash and you might as well remember that name because if Noreen is anywhere as good on the screen as she looks in real life, we'll have a real beauty. These doctors' wives certainly do all right for themselves—Claudette Colbert, Irene Dunne and a few others.

★ ★ ★ SNAPSHOTS of Hollywood at random: Robert Coogan, Jackie's brother, is recuperating in a London hospital from wounds he received in France; Robert Walker and Diana Lynn dining together at the Mocambo gave me an extra chuckle because I played matchmaker for this duet; Bing Crosby telephoned Dixie from their Nevada ranch that the snow is already on the ground; Irving Rapper draws the directorial assignment on "The Life of Marilyn Miller" at Warners, and I hope someone gets around to consulting Mecca Graham, assistant director on the same lot. He knew her better than anyone else; Florence Lawrence resigned as drama editor of the Los Angeles Examiner after 28 years. She really retired because she said she needed a rest. We'll miss Florence, who has many friends both on the newspaper and in theatrical circles; Mrs. Walter Pidgeon is wearing a new and unusual ring set with rubies and emeralds, designed by Walter, ports out in St. Louis. The White House said this tended to distort the meaning.

"I got it now," said the guy. "But who is the White House?" "Now you've got me," I admitted. "I've never been able to learn. There used to be a Col. House over there but he wasn't White—I mean he was white but he wasn't White House. But it must be somebody, don't you think?" "I don't know," said the guy, "but this conversation is getting me down. However, I am glad to learn you are keeping nice company. Give my regards to Queen Elizabeth and the kids when you see them, will you?"

"Well, well! That makes two of you—you and Eisenhower! I am all agog. How was it done?"

"Well, it is sort of technical. They built these phonies and whales and gooseberries—" "What about the mulberry?" "There was an officer there who explained all that," I said. "You take everything and call it a mulberry. That's what he said anyhow. I don't know if I can quite explain it to you without the models and charts and things."

"I'm sure you can't," agreed the guy. "But, after giving you the complete inside on D-Day, what else did the President say? I suppose you are going to tell me he got off a couple of guys on Dewey?" "As a matter of fact he got off one," I said. "Somebody asked him if he would comment on a remark by Sen. Jim McCarl of New York, that Russia would come into the war against Japan whenever United States and Britain were ready. The President laughed like anything and said he wasn't commenting on just part of what anyone said because he had learned better."

★ ★ ★ "TERRIFIC!" said the guy. "It must have been a relieving afternoon. But at least that has to do with Dewey?" "Well, we figured he was pointing it at Dewey because earlier in the day the White House accused Dewey of using only part of Administration re-

MARILYNN DUKE, THE RANGY BLONDE with the sultry voice who has been beguiling coast-to-coast audiences since Vaughn Monroe's band and Miss Duke herself reached national prominence, is now the bride of a Reverend man, E. J. (Pete) O'Brien . . . The ceremony was quiet and unpublicized, but Marilyn's numerous fans will be interested to learn that it took place in Revere Sept. 18.

★ ★ ★ EVIDENCE IS IN ALREADY that the Duke-O'Brien romance is starting off like a probable thing of substance and permanence . . . The two have been commuting between Boston and New York, where Marilyn is singing at the Hotel Commodore, since their marriage . . . Marilyn has Monday nights "off" . . . So she has been flying to Boston early Sunday morning to pass the leisure hours here in Boston with her husband . . . Mr. O'Brien, on the other hand, has been managing to make New York for mid-week trips.

★ ★ ★ ONE OF THE MOST engaging and popular of the "name" band vocalists, Miss Duke—a native of Georgia, by the way—has turned her talent to writing songs . . . Fisher Music is publishing her first, a ditty called "I'll Love You Forever" . . . Marilyn says the song reflects her emotion for her young and good-looking mate . . . In December, Miss Duke and the Vaughn Monroe orchestra take off for Hollywood, to make a picture for M-G-M, which is news, too.

★ ★ ★ IN PROSPECT. Two attractions—highly different—will emerge from wartime popularity in Boston with establishments of their own, it is indicated now . . . Only the WPA's limitation on construction has prevented the effervescent (and wealthy) Sally Keith, the tassel-waver, from presiding over her own nightclub . . . (Which will not be called "Chez Sally"—and please give the "chez" the French instead of phonetic spelling) . . . Noble and King, as huge a hit as the Copley-Plaza has ever held, have been the object of negotiations for more than a year now . . . The great singing duo fits Boston perfectly.

★ ★ ★ NOBLE AND KING's following is embracing, but the city's highest spenders are their most devoted fans . . . As the chief attraction of a "class" lull—which Boston really lacks—Noble and King and a soft, mellow band playing rhythmically for dancing, plus service a la Billingsley and the Stork Club, would make a fortune all around . . . Miss King and Mr. Noble are enchanted with Boston . . . They would really settle here professionally, the rewards being sufficient . . . But in one year, the two young singers have hit a high bracket in earnings . . . Nothing less than a "piece" of a supper-club's earnings (and a successful supper-club, at that) would compensate them for foregoing an annual tour of the hotel circuit . . . As for Miss Keith—her earnings have been in a high bracket for years . . . You would be surprised! . . . Her birthday and the 5th anniversary of her engagement at the Crawford House fall coincidentally on Oct. 31 (Halloween).

One of the worst of Broadway bookbarks is taking no chances. As soon as the Rodeo romped into town he put up a new sign reading: "Shine, 10 cents. High boots, 15 cents" . . . WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—A reporter in this town has to watch his casual remarks or people may get the notion he is trying to impress them. And people who think they are being impressed are apt to get very annoyed.

As innocently as a newborn babe, I walked into a sarcasm barrage after the White House press conference the other day. The worst of it was it took me a good three minutes to realize I was being derided.

It never occurred to me that there was anything unusual about having been at the White House because it was the regularly scheduled press conference. The President, as you probably know, holds two a week—on Tuesdays and Fridays.

The only times he doesn't hold them is when he doesn't. When he skips one we refrain from mentioning why for two reasons: (1) Censorship forbids; (2) because we don't know.

Anyway, representatives from every newspaper and news bureau in town cover these affairs. There is nothing exclusive about it although if a reporter with two heads showed up he would probably be required to show two passes.

This being the case, I was off guard when I returned to the office and a guy called to ask where I had been all afternoon. "I just got back from the White House," I said.

"Oh, you did, did you?" said the guy. "And how is Franklin?"

"He said he felt fine," I answered.

"He did, eh?" said the guy, more nastily than ever. "You can't talk like that. What other little personal matters did he confide in you?"

"Well, he said he thought he was in pretty good shape." "I'm certainly glad he doesn't let anything from you. How did you happen to get so chummy?"

"That was the funniest thing," I said. "Somebody said 'Do you have any rumors about the common reports on your health by the more naive correspondents?' Wasn't that a scream?"

"Killing!" said the guy. "Who

Cousins In Love

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I'm 19 years old and have gone out with quite a few boys. For almost a year I've been going out with my first cousin, only because he is so far away from home and knows no one. He is stationed at a nearby camp. We have both fallen very much in love, and as he's soon leaving we want to get married at once.

Both his and my parents object, but I know we could be very happy together. We've decided to leave it all to you and have promised our parents we would do whatever you say. So please be sure it is the right answer. My cousin is 22.

A SOLDIER AND A GIRL. This is a question for a physician to answer; frequently first cousins marry, and their children are in every way normal. Again, certain mental and physical deficiencies have been ascribed to this relationship, which is my reason for advising you to talk the matter out with the doctor rather than with one who has not studied medicine.

In ancient Egypt, the Pharaohs often married their sisters, and the near relationship seems to have been responsible for abnormalities.

Nicest Pudding

By MARTHA LEE

FEW PEOPLE can resist the spicy fragrance and rich goodness of mince pie, especially on a cold winter day. And there are lots of other good things to eat which can be made with mincemeat—tarts, turnovers, cookies, even puddings and fruit cake.

One of the very nicest puddings we have ever tasted is a Brown Betty in which a third of the apples in the recipe is substituted by a cup of mincemeat. We like this pudding served with lemon sauce, but for extra zest, add a tablespoon or two of rum, or wine, to the sauce.

MINCEMEAT BROWN BETTY

1 medium-sized apples
1 1/4 tsp. cinnamon
1 cup mincemeat 3/4 cup sugar
1 1/2 tbsp. butter or margarine
2 tbsp. grated orange rind
1-1 1/2 cup water

Pare core and slice apples. Place half the apples and half the mincemeat in a casserole or baking dish. Combine bread crumbs, sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle one half over apples and dot with half the butter. Repeat with remaining apples, mincemeat, crumbs and butter. Sprinkle with orange rind; add water and cover. Bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) for 45 minutes. Serve with lemon sauce.

LEMON SAUCE

1 tbsp. cornstarch 1/2 cup sugar
1 cup boiling water
1/2 cup lemon juice 1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
2 tsp. rum or wine (optional)

Mix together sugar, cornstarch and salt; gradually stir in hot water, bring to a boil and cook 15 minutes, stirring until smooth, thickened and clear. Stir in lemon rind and juice and butter. Makes 1 1/4 cups sauce, or 6 servings. (If liquor is used, add just before the course is served.)

Mincemeat is rather expensive and hard to get these days. And if you would be sure of a good supply, we suggest that you make your own. In case you do not have an "old faithful" recipe that's been handed down through the family, here is a standard rule. Substitutions of fruit may be made, if necessary, to meet wartime scarcities, as the total amount of fruit is kept the same.

MINCEMEAT

2 lbs. lean beef 3 cups water
4 lbs. salt apples 1 lb. suet
3 lbs. seedless raisins
1 cup dried candied orange peel
1 tsp. cinnamon 1 tsp. salt
1 cup molasses 1 lb. currants
1 tsp. allspice 1 tsp. cloves
2 cups granulated sugar
2 cups finely packed brown sugar 1/2 lb. citron, chopped
2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 pint cider or grape juice

Use inexpensive cut of meat; cut in small pieces, add water, bring to boil. Cover and simmer 2 hours or until tender. (Utility beef will require longer.) Remove meat; measure 1 1/2 cups stock. Put meat, suet, pared and cored apples through chopper and place in large kettle. Add other fruits, salt, spices, sugars, molasses and 1 1/2 cups meat stock. Simmer 1 hour, stirring frequently to prevent burning; add lemon juice and cider the last 5 minutes of cooking. Place in earthenware jar, cover closely and keep in cool place. Makes about 8 quarts mincemeat.

On "Being Yourself"

"Is you is, or is you ain't," as the song goes, proud of the "yourself" when you decide to "be yourself"? Don't let your personality crystallize unless it's as attractive as you can possibly make it. Perhaps "yourself" needs a bit of a refreshing course in manners?

Beauty

A BEAUTY BRAINCHILD to renew eye-appeal are herbal eye pads filled with a preponderance of a famous herb imported from England. They're beauty insurance against age-making lines and a boon to gleaming, wide-awake facial loveliness. In our book Warner Star Hedy Lamarr has the kind of orbs every girl dreams about... and not beyond the realm of achievement.

My Day

WASHINGTON, Wednesday—I was particularly happy yesterday to welcome here Lord and Lady Gowrie. Lord Gowrie is just returning to England, after serving in Australia as Governor-General.

They were more than kind to me when I was in Australia, and I am delighted to have this opportunity to renew our acquaintance.

Washington could not have given them a more beautiful day on which to arrive, and they went at once for a drive around the city. Lady Gowrie said she had been longing to visit here, and was delighted to find that it was one of her wishes that could be fulfilled.

At teatime we had with us Lord and Lady Gowrie, Alan S. Watt, charge d'affaires of the Australian legation, and Mrs. Watt and in the evening we

Just Grand for Eyes

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

IN THE London branch of a famous firm... honored by the patronage of their Britannic majesties... is a collection of old recipes and formulas handed down for generations... in which herbs and flowers... traditional for purity and naturalness... are exclusively used.

Sevenoaks, in Kent... the ancestral home of this firm... is a countryside ablaze with riotous colors... and the air is filled with the magical scent of over 200 varieties of herbs and flowers. It was into such a field that a noted chemist... whose name has gone down with the ages... wandered one day in search of experimental fodder. He saw a little white flower with a blue center. It looked so much like a human eye... it astounded him.

He plucked it, studied it and extracted its essence... and from this herb created soothing eye lotions used more centuries ago than you can count. He called it eye-bright... and eye-bright it still is for renewing eye-appeal, for glazing, softening, relaxing tired and worried eyes into lustrous brightness, star-bright shine and feminine whole-oneness.

MARVELOUS AGENTS

Today this firm has captured the same medicinal, eye-bright quality of yore in their herbal eye-pads... a must in any woman's daily routine, whoever she is, whatever she does. They are amply filled with the preponderance of this eye-bright herb imported from England. They are small, dumb-bell shaped affairs of white cambric... which when moistened in warm water and applied directly over the eyes... become marvelous agents... yes, better than sleep... for giving that desired clear-eyed, awakened gleam to the most-over-worked feature of the face.

The water in which they are soaked... and they can be used over again three or four times... makes them give off a light, herbal bouquet... a lovely lullaby for optic nerves strained by eye-tiring work and tear-eyed exertion of these fraughtful times. They're beauty insurance against age-making lines... the crow's feet that etch themselves in our daily record of life.

For the name of these herbal eye-pads, phone the Beauty Dept., NIBERY 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

I went to the concert given by the Philadelphia Orchestra under Eugene Ormandy. Mr. and Mrs. Ormandy were in Australia not long ago and saw a great deal of Lord and Lady Gowrie there.

* * *

THIS MORNING I had to bid our guests good-bye, and after receiving Mr. and Mrs. Ormandy at the White House at 11 o'clock, Miss Thompson and I took the train for New York city, where I am attending a tea in honor of Sen. Wagner.

I failed to mention the other day that I went to see some paintings by Candido Portinari of Brazil. There is a mural by him in the Congressional Library which I have not yet had time to see. He paints in a very modern style which I am never sure that I quite understand, but there is vigor and strength in his work.

Upkeep of Knitwear

By BETTINA BEDWELL

WE ARE in the season of knitwear, and since it takes a lot of upkeep, I want to give you a few pointers that may be useful. First of all, if you are going to wash knitted things, remember these precautions:

Remove all unwashable buttons, trimmings and shoulder pads. Put the garment into thick lukewarm suds and squeeze the sudsy water through it, working it under water to avoid strain on fibers. If there are silk or rayon bindings that need scrubbing, lift them from the water slightly and scrub them with a small soft brush.

When you take the garment out of the suds do so with both hands in a loose ball so it will not stretch, and squeeze water out. Then rinse it carefully at least three times in lukewarm water, squeeze it as dry as you can and put it in a big towel and knead it gently. Dry on drying forms if possible.

If you have knitted ski or sports things in several colors, better send them to the cleaner, if there is any doubt about the fastness of the colors.

"That's one reason why it's so hard to get Hood's Ice Cream!"

Lots of people have been asking, lately, why Hood's Ice Cream should be short when some other brands are plentiful.

The answer's easy.

We take pride in making the very finest ice cream possible, even under wartime restrictions: smooth, rich-tasting, delicious... made from sweet country cream and pure, wholesome flavorings. The kind you'd expect from a topnotch dairy like Hood's.

And just because the quality of our ice cream is so high folks buy it up faster than we can make it; FOR WE REFUSE TO SACRIFICE QUALITY FOR QUANTITY. That's why your Hood dealer may frequently be "sold out." But chances are he'll have more Hood's Ice Cream again soon... and when he does, you can be sure it will be good!

CBI Roundup in Come-Back Shows Stars 'Troupers'

NEW DELHI, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Army newspaper CBI Roundup answered today criticism by film stars Ann Sheridan, Joe E. Brown and Paulette Goddard of a recent editorial asserting they cut short their entertainment tours in "over-easy theaters."

Commenting on Miss Sheridan's statement that she ate C or K restaurants more often than not, the newspaper said "the facts of the matter were that Miss Sheridan ate the best food available everywhere."

"If and when she ate K or C restaurants, everyone else was eating it," CBI Roundup said.

Observing that Joe E. Brown had suggested the editorial probably was written by someone enjoying the comforts of New Delhi, CBI Roundup said:

"It was. That happens to be where the Army ordered us to serve. The writer of the editorial was thoroughly familiar with the realities, skill and generosity of Brown."

"Old Cavern-Mouth probably was the best-liked restaurant who ever hit the C-B-I (China-Puma-India) theater of operations. Army records indicate he contracted to play 120 days in C-B-I and played only 37."

Commenting on Miss Goddard's statement that she traveled within four miles of the battlefield and flew over The Hump to China. CBI Roundup said:

"Miss Goddard played 54 days out of a promised 60. She cancelled the tail-end of her tour."

Young Healy at 15 Wakefield Flash

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Wakefield High School's football squad lost the master-minding of Coach Bill Healy last spring in one of the biggest surprise moves in schoolboy ranks but the team has picked up Halfback Bill Healy, Jr., this fall to make the fans forget, at least, partially the loss of that familiar figure from the local gridiron.

Coach Healy was released by Wakefield after he had turned out some nifty ball teams in favor of Coach Hal Rood, a likeable fellow who realized that he was stepping into a frying pan when he took over the job.

Coach Rood hasn't turned in any miracles. He wasn't expected to. But he'll tell you that he has a sophomore back who'll be developing into a classy ball carrier in Billy Healy, Jr. As yet, the younger Healy hasn't broken into the starting line-up but at his present pace, he'll probably have a first string job before the close of the season. Right now, he has the first team backfield very much worried about their berths for the Watertown game Saturday.

Healy gained some experience in the Malden game and then came into his own the following week against Medford, sweeping through the entire opposition for an 85-yard touchdown run. He continued his good work as Wakefield won its first decision of the season against Swampscott but then, like the entire team, he fell off last week against Woburn.

15-YEAR-OLD FIND

Healy is very fast and shifty. He's only 15 years old but already he's packing 160 pounds. He's a kid who can make the best of his blockers and a kid who must be tabbed for future years.

Healy's big problem right now is to replace either Hal Pelletier, Henry Rich, Jack Spencer or George Roberto. Of the group, only Pelletier is a letterman and he's a first stringer because of his heavy blocking. Rich is a tasser and kicker but he's lacking in experience. Then, too, there's the problem of Joe Colucello's return to action. Colucello broke his leg in the Malden game last year but he's about ready to play.

In the Wakefield line, Coach Rood has a standout guard in Nardi Barsanti, 185-pound converted back. Barsanti picked up game experience last year but he's really found himself now in the front wall. Healy, Rood's candidate for All Scholastic and, in his mentor's mind, he's worthy of first string on any suburban football team.

Barsanti is balanced at the other guard by Amundo Roberto, no relation to the back. They've been a big help to George Armstrong, breaking in at center.

HARD GAMES AHEAD

Coach Rood has plenty of beef at the tackles but like his ends, his tackles lack experience. Dan Ratcliffe, 185-pound brother of Harland, and Art Loughlin, 180 pounds, will probably develop into very dangerous linemen as they shed their green. The Wakefield ends, Paul Loughlin, no relation to Art, and Dave Dignan—both seniors—won't top 155 pounds soaking wet.

Everything may get worse before it gets better for the Wakefield team. They have Manchester West, Melrose, Winchester and Saugus to meet before the close of the campaign.

But the team will come along to give all of those top clubs a battle as the weeks pass.

Sports Essential, Says Gene Tunney

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Oct. 19 (AP)—Commander Gene Tunney, USNR, advocating a compulsory physical fitness program for youth after the war, said here last night that since he had been in military service he had changed his mind about "the essentiality of sports for the future warrior."

The ex-heavyweight champion, who told reporters after his talk that formerly he had held the opinion that preparation for war should be concentrated on military training alone, said in an address at a New Haven gridiron club dinner that because of sports "we are better equipped than any nation in the world to carry on a long war."

Tunney, asserting sports gave fighting qualities to a spectator as well as to a participant, indicated that a talk he had had with Gen. Douglas MacArthur in New Guinea last December had done much to bring about his change of mind.

GEN. MACARTHUR FOR IT

He quoted MacArthur as saying football and boxing were the best sports for the development of a fighting man. Tunney said, however, that he believed any sport would develop "gameness and fortitude," qualities which he termed essential for a warrior.

The spectator, Tunney added, was benefited by watching sports because "he sees courage demonstrated."

The former champion then declared that the spectator, because of what he has seen, "wants to be game; he wants to be courageous," and, if put into military uniform, "he will turn out almost as good a job as the participant" in sports.

He expressed the belief that in the future the nation should institute a program of "compulsory physical fitness and compulsory military training."

Asserting "this is the era of the athlete, of the physically sound man," Tunney said he believed the Navy's V-12 program in American colleges and universities had "saved" varsity sports. "If you drop varsity sports, you are dropping something very essential in the American make-

Empire Meet to Cap Billion Dollar Season

By PAT ROBINSON

The Empire City meeting, starting next week, will wind up the most successful racing season the New York tracks ever had. When the curtain is rung down, the New York punters will have bet far in excess of a billion dollars. That's right, a billion! Like this: $1,000,000,000.

Deduct 6 per cent of that for the state and 4 per cent for the tracks and you will readily understand that both the state and the tracks did all right for themselves.

How the late James Butler would have enjoyed that. The multi-millionaire greeneyman who owned the Empire City track never dreamed of such sums in his day in the sport.

Speaking of that grand old Irishman reminds me of a couple of anecdotes concerning him. He gave huge sums to charity during his lifetime and he was a soft touch for a loan. But his charity didn't extend to his good Irish whisky which he kept in his office at the track.

One day before the first race the old man invited one of the sports writers to his sanctum for a drink. "I've just got two drinks left," he said, opening a drawer and disclosing the bottle. He and the sports writer finished the bottle.

Just before the third race the old man again invited the same sports writer for another drink. "I've just got two drinks left," he said and the sports writer thought he was seeing things when the old man disclosed the same bottle they had before with two drinks left in it.

Before the last race the old man invited the same sports writer in for another drink, saying he had just two drinks left, "one for you and one for me." Then it dawned on the sports writer that the old man had been putting two drinks from a full bottle into an empty one. He was taking no chances on a scribbler sitting there all afternoon drinking up his good Irish whisky!

That was in the days when the late Sam Hildreth was saddling so many winners for Harry Sinclair. The Hildreth box adjoined the Butler box. One day Mrs. Hildreth, wife of the trainer, leaned over and said to old man Butler:

"You know, Mr. Butler, I said a little prayer for our horse Superette in the first race, and it won. Now I'm saying another little prayer for our Mad Play to beat your Sting in the big race."

With a twinkle in his eye and in a strong Irish brogue, the old man replied: "What, Mrs. Hildreth, all the prayers in the book won't make your Mad Play beat my Sting today." And they didn't. Sting won off by himself.

Texas League May Resume Play in '45

He added their decision will not be disclosed until the minor league convention at Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 6-8. The league hasn't operated for two years.

Fine, Suspension Holds on Butler

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Steeler-Chicago Cardinal National Football League team resumed preparation today for its game with the New York Giants Sunday minus the services of Halfback Johnny Butler.

The former Tennessee star was under indefinite suspension for failing to report for practice after he and two other players had each been fined $200 for what the management called "indifferent play" in last Sunday's 34-7 loss to the Bears at Chicago.

Co-Coaches Walt Kiesling and Phil Handler assigned End Eddie Rucinski to the spot vacated by Butler.

The other players fined with Butler, Fullback Johnny Grigas and Tackle Eberle Schultz, were back in uniform after straightening out their troubles with the Steeler management. All three had failed to report for the week's first practice on Tuesday.

The fines were announced after the club returned from Chicago. John Holaban, business manager, said a meeting of the players was held after the fines were assessed and that "all grievances were worked out and things are now working out to the best interests of the club."

Butler and Schultz are the property of the Pittsburgh end of the Card-Pitt combine while Grigas belongs to the Chicago half.

Some words fool you. Take "fast". One time it means TIED FAST, another time it means RUN FAST.

Some words DON'T fool you. They mean the same every time. A good example is "Ballantine". Ballantine means "PURITY, BODY, FLAVOR."

The Lost Weekend

Based on the powerful, best-selling, novel of five unforgettable days in a man's life

His heart seemed continually about to stop...

THE RACING fire was as if a path of gasoline had been poured on the rug, and then touched with a match. It went out. So long as he kept his eye on it—Physically he knew he was in dangerous shape. His pounding heart seemed continually about to stop. It thumped and missed. It pounded with such frantic insistence that he was unable to get in any position where he could not hear it. Then sometimes it was quiet for so long that he would sit up in sudden panic and listen wildly for it to go on.

"He died a thousand deaths"—aah! Worse by far, it was one death drawn out in endless torture, a death you didn't die. You kept on dying; you died all day and all night; and still there was dying yet to do; it was conscious insanity—any moment now his brain would burst.

He thought of home, of his mother in the choir.

The telephone rang. It sounded red; orange-yellow; like the nerve-shattering bell that rings in the subway when a train is about to pull out. But this was something he could take. It kept on ringing...

Telephones didn't ring like that at home. They were short or long, anyway irregular. It was good thinking of home. He thought of it deliberately now—thought of home with passion.

He saw himself sitting in the front-pew of the church, wearing his clean-smelling choir vestments. From across the aisle, on the woman's side, he heard his mother's voice among the others, the warm alto. He looked at her. She smiled back at him and gave him the smallest wink.

The church was bathed with sunlight... the minister was ready to serve the choir. His mother rose with the other women and went to the altar rail. All the heads were bowed now except hers. She looked straight before her, her elbows on the rail, her hands clasped under her chin. She seemed lost in thought, and so was he, as he gazed at his beautiful mother, lovely with the clear profile, the soft, pink, rose-like cheeks...

The telephone was ringing again. He had no way of knowing how long his deliberate recovery had lasted. It had not been refreshing; or if it had, the ringing of the phone had wiped it all away, woke his racing heart, his fears of what was going to happen to him now...

The telephone rang on. Was there possibly one small infinitesimal sip in the bottom of the sticky bottle standing there on the table...?

Eagles in Fighting Pitch for N. Y. U.

Although injuries have dented the squad in spots, the Boston College eleven will be tuned to a fighting pitch for their game with New York University under the lights at Fenway Park on Friday night.

Moody Sarno has the boys going through daily workouts and capable subs have been groomed to take over the first string jobs if and when they are needed.

HEIGHTS CHATTER

There is a possibility that B. C. will meet Holy Cross on Nov. 8, the first meeting between the teams since 1912 when the Crusaders de-feathered the Eagles... Elias Wier, standout halfback in Lawrence circles last fall, was a four letter man at Central Catholic. Besides football, he was captain of the track team as well as playing baseball and basketball... Ed Cronin, first string quarterback, is hobbling to his classes on crutches... Bill Hogan, former second string center, may be a surprise starter at either tackle or guard... Joe Elliot, blond halfback, is suffering from a painful boil on his arm and is a doubtful starter. Elliot, besides being captain of the grid

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—The Randolph Field Wreckers, Notre Dame and an all-star Ivy league combination are among the attractions suggested in preliminary talks. For football, basketball, hockey, soccer, bowling, boxing and track also are listed for benefit performances.

You're SURE when you say "LEATHERNECK"

SURE that you are talking of a first-class fighting man. The time-honored nickname of "Leatherneck" is derived from the leather stock which was part of the original uniform (pictured above) worn by the first Marines in the year 1775. From that day on, these soldiers of the sea have fought our country's battles from the halls of Montezuma to the shores of Tripoli.

And just as you have always been certain that the leathernecks have had the situation well in hand throughout their long and honorable history, so you can be sure of pre-war quality when you hold a glass of Seagram's in your hand.

The priceless whiskies and grain neutral spirits that go into Seagram's were both distilled exclusively for blending. Ingredients of pre-war quality mean pre-war goodness in every bottle of Seagram's you buy today.

So, if you are satisfied with nothing less than a genuine pre-war quality whiskey, the wisest move is... "Say Seagram's and be Sure!"

Yanks Cast Ballots on Three Fronts

Luxembourg Barn as U. S. Polls—Almost a month ahead of their fellow voters back home, servicemen all over the world cast their ballots for President of the United States . . . and (above) in Constharn, Luxembourg, a barn is utilized as a polling place for voting. W.O. S. M. Sullivan (seated) of Dotham, Ala., is in charge of the polls. See below . . .

In the Pacific—Three fighting Navy voters visit the "polls" aboard an aircraft carrier in the Pacific to cast their ballots in the presidential election. QM 2c W. Solomon (left) of Waterbury, Ct., is getting some info.

Behind the Lines in Italy—Capt. Vincent Conk (right) of Brooklyn, voting officer, shows two soldiers how to use the servicemen's ballot as they prepare to vote near the Fifth Army front in Italy. More than 1,000,000 GI ballots already have been marked on the war fronts and returned to the States. A soldiers vote of 2,300,00 is expected.
